WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS. New York Writes Itself Down as Our Most

Provincial City. A few weeks ago Colonel Fitzgerald, proprietor of a restaurant in New York city, decided that he would uniform hiswaiter girls in the bloomer costume. The colonel decided on this because it would stop the raising of dust from the swishing of the girls' skirts as they passed to and fro, and because also he thought it would be an added inducement to people to enter his place. He believes besides in the rational costume for women, and he thought, up to the time of his present experience, that the time had come for it to be worn. Ladies in Denver wear it about the streets without annoyance. In San Francisco a restaurant keeper is doing a booming business because his waiter girls wear bloomers. Colonel Fitzgerald himself agreed to pay for the pretty, natty uniform for his girls. It was of navy blue cloth, with a kilt skirt reaching just below the knees, the bloomers underneath coming down over the knee. A jacket with a brown vest having gilt buttons and a jaunty little cap with the name of the restaurant on it in gilt letters completed the uniform. Black stockings and shoes with silver buckles were worn with it. Miss Kitty Moulton, a quiet, slender and graceful girl, agreed to wear the uniform first, being paid well to do so. She looked altogether neat and pret-"I say, colonel, she looks out of sight," remarked an enthusiastic patron of the house. Crowds were attracted to the restaurant, and heavy business at once commenced. But crowds were at the same time attracted to the sidewalk outside. They gathered by the hundred; they blocked the sidewalk and obstructed free passage. What they did it for heaven only knows. One would have thought that bloomers on bicycles were a common enough sight in so big a city as New York and that the people had become accustomed to seeing all kinds of costumes among the foreigners there, so that they would not have to stop and gape open monthed at one brave little girl attending to her waiter duties. But it seems this was not the case. The mob staid there hour after hour through the three days the experiment was continued. Then a fool police captain arrested the proprietor. One would think, again, that he ought to have arrested the crowd which blocked the sidewalk and committed the offense against the law, but he did not. He arrested the man who tried to introduce bloomered waiter world apparently. It begins to give one that tired feeling to see over and again on the so called woman's page of the newspapers such a pack of trash about what men admire in wives. Give us now something about the qualities women admire in husgirls, and the experiment was abandoned. Queer creatures New York people are; never saw very much of the

The bicycle has done much for woman. One woman at least has done something for the bicycle. Miss E. S. Hutchins of Big Rapids, Mich., has invented a tire which is said to be an improvement over the present one. Her improvement consists in the fitting of a small solid leather tire into a groove in the common pneumatic tire, which increases its durability.

A German anatomist, Professor Waldeyer, has wasted considerable valuable time trying to prove by a comparison of the human male and female bodies that Saturday. Fourth of July comes on woman is inferior to man and should Saturday. So does Memorial day. So not therefore think of trying to compete with him in anything, but should, so to speak, quietly slide out and let him have everything his own way. Woman's blood is poorer and thinner than man's; therefore she should not attempt higher education. Her vital energy is less than his, says Waldeyer; therefore she should not try to enter bread winning occupations. But do not the fools who talk in this way see that these very facts, if they are facts, are all the more reason why woman should hustle and develop herself till she becomes man's equal? Every human being is entitled to make the highest and best of himself. If woman has less vital energy than man and less brain power, then that is all the more reason why she should go in with all her might for physical and intellectual culture till she brings herself up even. In this, for the good of the human race, she ought to be encouraged in all possible ways by scientific gentlemen instead of being snubbed and sat upon by them.

Eva A. Weed passed her civil service examination in an admirable manner and was appointed draftswoman in the employ of the Brooklyn municipal government, with pay of $70 a month.

To the old-now very old-story that women must not vote because they cannot fight, Lillie Devereux Blake responds that they could send substitutes, as Grover Cleveland did. And yet the American people admired this male woman so much that they elected him twice to the presidency.

The result of women's wearing short dresses will be that they will pay attention to physical culture. When the feet and lower limbs are seen, it will not be long till women determine to make them strong and shapely. They will quit having those horrible, buniony feet which result from trying to wear shoes three sizes too small for them. A large foot, perfectly shaped, is much handsomer than a small one deformed till you would never know it.

What is the good of a divided skirt if you have "a full length gore buttoned over the front?"

Who made men, even preacher men, judge of what it is or is not proper for women to do?

Utah will be state No. 3 to come sailing into the Union with the flag of woman suffrage shining at its foretop. And some people thought Utah was benighted! ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

Ants and Their Ways.

A man who knows all about ants

Some of the ants guard the home, some feed the babies, some make roads and new rooms, while others go out to get food. Each one seems to do its little | Something to Beautify the Ladies. duty without fuss or fretting. Once an ant found a big fly that was dead. The ant pulled and pulled at it, but could not carry it off. After 20 minutes of hard work it went to the nest and came back with 12 other ants to help it.

There are big ants and little ants, white, black and red ants—a thousand the less than the kinds in all. One kind has servants to wait on them and feed them. They have become so lazy that they had rather die than take the trouble to feed themselves. Other ants keep cows. You have often seen these cows, but you did not know they were cows because they have no horns and long tails. They are the little green bugs that spoil our rosebushes in the summer. The ants are we call honey dew. - Examiner.

When Christmas Comes.

When Christmas comes with mirth and cheer To clasp the circlet of the year, Then forth we go for holly and pine Our wreaths of evergreen to twine. Then swift we trip across the snow To find the gleaming mistletoe, And straight and tall and branching free We baste to choose the Christmas tree.

When Christmas comes, for mother and Kate All sorts of sweet surprises wait, And little fingers thrill with joy As pretty gifts their skill employ. When Christmas comes, each tries her best To make it beautiful for the rest, And no one thinks of selfish ease, But seeks his neighbor to serve and please

When Christmas comes, there is none so poor He will turn the begger from his door. When Christmas comes, the rich and great Search out their brothers of low estate, And sleighbells ring, the church bells chime, The children sing in the merry time, And smiles and greetings leap to lips That long were set in grief's eclipse, For angels of comfort come and go Within the yule log's radiant glow.

Many merchants are aware that their custo-mers are their best friends and take pleasure in supplying them with the best goods obtainable.
